

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

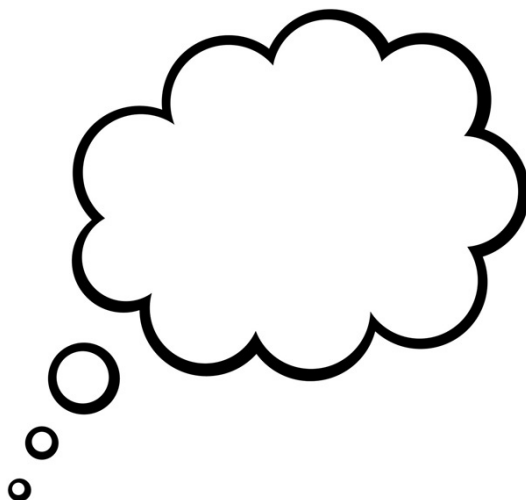

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Let's work together!

Learning Outcome

Exchange information about unlikely events or fairly certain conditions that will be fulfilled in present, past or future in spoken or written texts and in work and social contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about customer relations.
- I can express deduction and disbelief.
- I can talk about the purpose of an action or an event.

Ask your partner:

- What does it take to work well with your classmates and colleagues?
- Do you think you prefer working independently or as a team? Explain.

Let's Explore!

Vanessa surprises the team with some perks

* "Perks" are like bonuses. They are unexpected extra benefits.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Vanessa: I've called you here with the hopes of making you all more motivated and happier in your jobs, while also improving customer relations.
- Michael: This sounds good.
- Vanessa: We've had a rough ride lately, and you might have felt underappreciated in the past but I'm determined to keep you employed here. So I am wondering how you feel about me hiring another server in order to allow each of you a few less hours a week or to help out.
- Rachel: I could do with a few less hours. The last few weeks may have been the most difficult I've ever had since I began here.
- Alexander: I want more hours, not less.
- Michael: I'm fine with the hours I have.
- Vanessa: I can hire her on without taking away any hours from you, but with the volume of customers and my goal to offer superior customer service, another server at peak hours will help us achieve that. She can act as a floater who can help you whenever you feel juiced. The last few weeks may have been the most difficult I've ever had since I began here. I don't think it was a true reflection of what actually transpired, but it may have been the impetus to bring me to this point. I'm eager to tell you the best news of all. First, you'll each get a free membership to a mindfulness meditation course which I hope you'll at least try out. And second, I worked out a plan with Bill that'll give you each two weeks' paid vacation every year going forward. Bill can't have approved that! What a joke!
- Rachel: Rachel! As a matter of fact, he has, and two weeks' vacation was his idea.
- Vanessa: This job just got a whole lot better.
- Alexander: Thanks Vanessa. You rock!
- Michael: I want us to be a real team, and I want you to be happy about working here.

Let's Practice!

In order to apologize, Vanessa makes deductions about her employees' feelings.

Instructions: Use the expressions from the box to correctly complete the sentences.

1.	2.	3.	4.
must have feeling	may have be	may have been	can't have approved
might have felt	must be	could have be	can't have approve could have feel	may have been	must be	Must not have approved

1. You ____ felt underappreciated in the past but I'm determined to keep you employed here.
2. The last few weeks _____ the most difficult I've ever had since I began here.
3. I don't think it was a true reflection of what actually transpired, but it _____ the impetus to bring me to this point.
4. Bill _____ that! What a joke!

Let's Practice!

Vanessa and Michael discuss some goals they have.

Instructions: Match the sentences on the left with their missing parts on the right.

COLUMN A

1. So I am wondering how you feel about me hiring another server in order
2. She can act just as a floater who can help
3. I've called you here with the hopes of making
4. My goal is to offer superior customer service,
5. I'm eager to tell you

COLUMN B

- a. to help out.
- b. and another server at peak hours will help us achieve that.
- c. you whenever you feel juiced.
- d. you all more motivated and happier in your jobs.
- e. the best news of all.

Extension Activity

Write a wish list.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- If you have a job, write down ideas about how it could be better. If you don't have a job, make a description of a perfect job.
- Tell a friend what would make this job ideal.
- Write a wish list of the things you would like to have at work.
- Back up each wish with a reason for that wish.
- Share and compare your wishes with your friends' wishes.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I tell a friend about the perfect job.

☐
☐

I write a wish list.

☐
☐

I write about the reasons for my wishes.

☐
☐

I share and compare wishes with other friends.

☐
☐

Target Words

- rough ride (noun): a difficult time
e.g. We've had a rough ride lately.
- peak hours (noun): the busiest time of day
e.g. With my goal to offer superior customer service, another server at peak hours will help us achieve that.
- juiced (adjective): having too much work
e.g. She can act as a floater who can help you whenever you feel juiced.
- floater (noun): a person who helps with various tasks
e.g. She can act as a floater who can help you whenever you feel juiced.
- to transpire (verb): to happen
e.g. Tell what actually transpired between them.
- a true reflection (noun): an honest representation
e.g. What he said is not a true reflection of how he feels.
- impetus (noun): motivation
e.g. I don't think it was a true reflection of what actually transpired, but it may have been the impetus to bring me to this point.
- going forward (expression): from now on e.g. I worked out a plan with Bill that'll give you each two weeks' paid vacation every year going forward.

Learning Points

Perfect Infinitives to Express Deduction and Disbelief

You use the Perfect Infinitives with modals must, might, could, may and can't to express a deduction or disbelief about something in the present or the past.

The modal you choose depends on the level of probability you want to express.

You use must for logical conclusions. There is a strong degree of certainty about the present situation.

You use may, might and could to express a deduction about things in the present or the past when there are other possibilities or when the situation is possible but not certain. These modals have the same meaning.

You use can't when the situation is impossible or to express disbelief.

Structure:

modal verb + have + past participle

Examples:

- You might have felt underappreciated in the past.
- The last few weeks may have been the most difficult I've ever had since I began here.

Talking About Purpose

You use purpose clauses to express the reasons for an action, or the intended motive of a specific situation.

You use words like to, in order to, so as to or for + -ing to introduce a purpose clause.

Purpose clauses are subordinate to the main clause. The order of the clauses can be interchangeable, as long as the relationship between the two remains clear.

Example:

I have come up with a new plan in order to stay focused.

In order to stay focused, I have come up with a new plan.*

You use to with an infinitive as a way to express purpose. We refer to this structure as an Infinitive of purpose.

Example:

I called to find out if the order had been shipped.

You use in order to or so as to to emphasize an intention or a necessity.

Example:

I would like to call for a meeting in order to / so as to address the current issues in the restaurant.

Learning Points

You use in order that or so that when the second clause starts with a pronoun or a noun.

Example:

You need to give me an answer, so that / in order that I can address the problem quickly.

You also use for + verb -ing to express purpose and intended use.

Example:

These boots are made for walking.

When you want to express purpose and intention, the following words and expressions can be used.

- Verbs

I mean/plan/intend/aim/hope to ...

- Nouns

My goal/intention/dream/purpose/hope/aim is to ...

- Adjectives

I'm eager/determined/resolved/tempted to ...

- Nouns/Verbal phrases

To have + high hopes of / no intention of / no thoughts of / half a mind to ...

To be + / toying with the idea ...

- Prepositional phrases

in the hopes of getting / with a view to getting / with the aim of getting ...

Examples:

- I've called you here with the hopes of making you all more motivated and happier working here.

- I'm determined to keep you employed here.*

- So I am wondering how you feel about me hiring another server in order to allow each of you a few less hours a week or to help out.

